If you are interested in applying to be a GQA Approved Centre, to offer qualifications and/or accredited training courses, below is some initial information you may find useful.

GQA Qualifications is an Awarding Organisation approved by the Regulatory Authorities in England, Scotland, Wales and N. Ireland to offer qualifications in over 20 sectors, details of these are available elsewhere on this website.

To deliver GQA qualifications, Assessors and Internal Quality Assurance staff must hold a relevant Assessor/IQA qualification and have a suitable occupational background and experience.

To deliver GQA accredited training, individuals must have experience of delivering training and have the correct occupational background and experience.

Approved Centres are required to hold and work in accordance with a good number of policies and procedures linked to qualification and/or accredited training delivery, a list of the main policies can be supplied on request.
